

Theology Threads | Episode 9 Notes | The Ultimate Evidence: Part Two

Summary

In the second part of the discussion of the ultimate evidence of Christianity in our lives, Dr. Brian Jenkins and Pastor Miles Langrock discuss loving your neighbor. An often taught, but misunderstood concept, Brian and Miles cover who to love, how to love, and if we really need to love our enemies (spoiler alert, we do!). This episode is the conclusion of a larger series on the "tree" of the Christian worldview, so make sure to check out episodes 4-8 to complete the series. ### Reflection Questions

Brian and Miles broke down 1 Corinthians 13 in a way that may be different to how you have heard it taught. How does viewing this chapter as a rant from Paul change the meaning and impact of the passage in your life?

Take a moment to reflect on the story of the Good Samaritan and your own life. Is there a time when an unexpected person extended this type of love and care to you, like the Samaritan to the Jew? Have you been able to step out and help those who you typically do not surround yourself with?

Who had Jesus called you to step out and love?

If you could share one concept or point addressed in Episode 9, what would it be? Who would you share it with?
